

SOUND MAP

A Sharing Nature Activity by Joseph Cornell

"This earth was the most glorious musical instrument, and I was audience to its strains."

—Thoreau

In the space below place an "X" in the center to show where you are sitting. Then, for each sound you hear, draw a mark on the map that shows how far away the sound is and the direction. See if you can draw marks that look like the sounds. Make the marks very simple—for example, two wavy lines for the wind, or a musical note for a songbird.

What sound have you never heard before? Do you know what made the sound?

What sounds did you especially like? Why?
